EDGE Obtains ISO 10015 Compliance for Its Technical Affairs School

- ISO 10015 is a milestone for AL TAIF, an entity of EDGE, for its training and development activities.

AL TAIF, the leading provider of maintenance, repair and overhaul (MRO) services, technical training and supply chain, and an entity of EDGE, one of the world's leading advanced technology and defence groups, has announced that its Technical Affairs School (TAS) has been formally assessed and found compliant with the requirements of ISO 10015 for Competence Management and People Development by SWTUV, an international provider for testing and certification. By aligning the training and development activities with ISO 10015 and AL TAIF's strategic objectives, the Technical Affairs School ensures that all personnel involved in delivering maintenance training to the military are not only qualified but also competent, effectively trained, and properly assessed.

ISO 10015 is an international standard that provides guidelines for organisations to establish, implement, maintain, and improve their competency management and staff development processes. It supports continuity through effective training, monitoring, and succession planning. The standard focuses on competence management and people development within the framework of a quality management system (QMS).